

What is the Biocommunications Association?

The BioCommunications Association (BCA) is an international association of professionals in the field of scientific imaging. Our goal is to provide a network of colleagues able to offer advice and support; educational resources, programs, materials and promote visual data of the highest standards for excellence in communication across the life sciences and medicine.

The JBC is a source for publishing visual data

The Journal of Biocommunication is dedicated to showcasing biocommunication techniques; describing experimental procedures and protocols in scientific illustration, imagery, multimedia systems, and other formats that generate visual data applicable to Biology and the Health Science Professions.

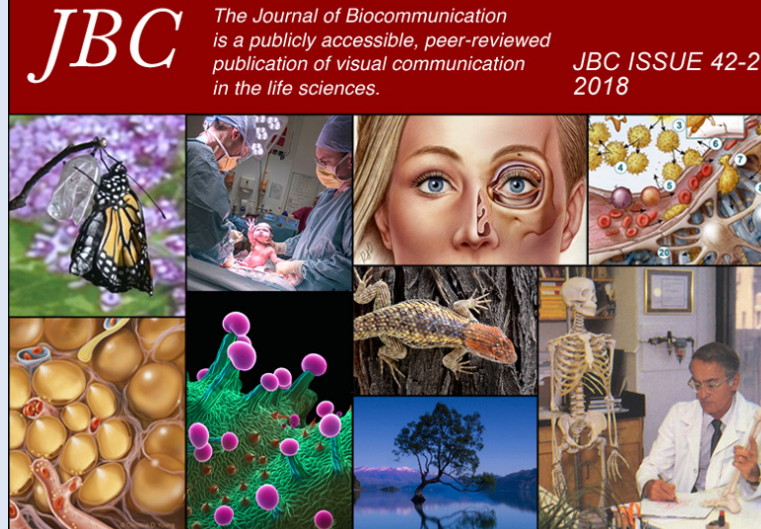

Recently published JBC articles

*Photography Transillumination Techniques:
Multicystic Peritoneal Mesothelioma.
Marie Jones & Faheez Mohamed

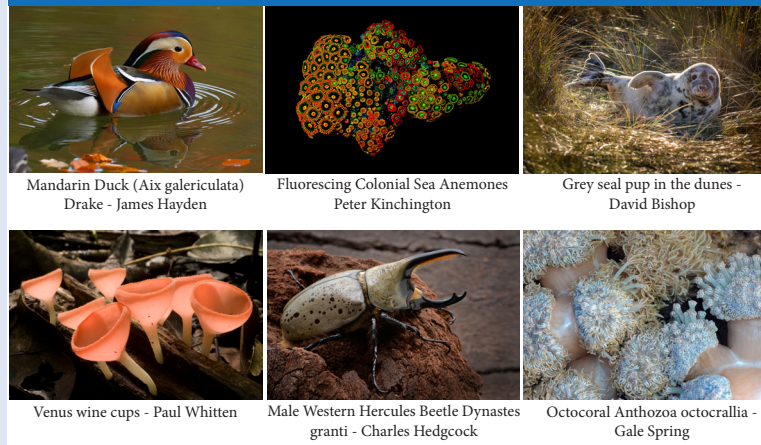

*Developing a Virtual Lab to Teach Essential Biology Laboratory Techniques

M. Miyamoto, D. Milkowski, C. Young & L. Lebowicz

JBC Cover

A selection of the BCA BioImages gallery

Submit articles for publication in the JBC

The Journal of Biocommunication welcomes unsolicited materials for consideration. Such materials are peer reviewed by selected referees for the Features, Columns, Gallery, and Calendar sections and the Cover. Through submission of manuscripts, authors warrant that articles have not been published previously and that they will assign copyright for the article to the JBC with a signed "transfer of copyright."

For manuscript, figure, and media submission,
<http://journals.uic.edu/ojs/index.php/jbc/about/submissions#onlineSubmissions>

For more information

JBC

*Jim Wetzel, BCA, JBC editor - jwetzel@presby.edu

*Gary Schnitz, Chair, Journal Management Board - gschnitz@sbcglobal.net

<http://www.jbiocommunication.org>

BCA

Join the BCA: <https://bca.org>

*Mardell Fosse, Director of Member Services - office@bca.org

Enter BioImages

https://bca.org/gallery/about_bioimages.html

*Danielle Edwards - Director of Communications - communications@bca.org